WHAT YOU NEED TO KNOW ABOUT CAMP LEJEUNE TOXIC WATER CASES

Between 1953 and 1987, tap water at Marine Corps Base Camp Lejeune in Jacksonville, North Carolina, was contaminated with harmful chemicals at concentrations from 240 to 3400 times levels permitted by safety standards. Service members and their families bathed in and ingested this contaminated water, potentially causing serious health conditions, including cancer, leukemia, and non-Hodgkin's lymphoma.

Employee Spotlight

Daniel Martin
Associate Attorney

Daniel was born and raised in the Northern Virginia area and, aside from a few years in Charlotte, North Carolina, for some of high school and college, he has lived in Virginia all his life. After graduating from the University of North Carolina at Charlotte, Daniel attended law school at Washington & Lee University in Lexington, Virginia. During his time in law school, he interned for a Virginia Court of Appeals judge and a Federal District Court judge. After graduating, he clerked for a Virginia Circuit Court judge for a year in Staunton before joining Fishwick & Associates PLC, where he has now practiced for about four years. When not advocating for his clients, he has the honor of being the firm's in-house tech support—a position mostly earned by default due to his comparatively young age! Daniel recently bought a house in Vinton, cementing the Roanoke Valley as his home for the foreseeable future. In his spare time, Daniel enjoys writing, video games, and playing Dungeons & Dragons. He can neither confirm nor deny if a dog is on the horizon.
